

The Core Panel of Mediators

Core offers a range of experienced professionals from a variety of backgrounds. Our panel of principal mediators is fully trained and accredited and pursues a programme of continuing learning and development. The panel includes:

- John Sturrock QC, described in Chambers 2004 UK Guide to the Legal Profession as “the foremost mediator in Scotland”, who has acted in a wide range of disputes and differences in business, commercial, public sector and professional services matters.
- Pamela Lyall, whose has considerable experience of mediating in professional negligence, property, management, commercial contracts and other disputes.
- Heather Allen, who has been mediating for many years with much involvement in management, organisational and business disputes
- Hugh Donald OBE, one of the most experienced family mediators and now a fully trained commercial mediator, with extensive experience in the health sector and professional services.
- Alastair Kelly, whose mediation experience includes commercial contracts and oil and gas, and whose professional background is in construction, engineering and surveying.
- Carol Paton, with experience in professional services and workplace mediation and extensive background in managing and consulting in the public sector.
- Alastair Thornton, with mediation experience in property, commercial and business disputes and many years of litigation involvement.

We are delighted that Sir David Edward QC, formerly judge in the European Court of Justice and now an accredited mediator, is available to act as an independent mediator in appropriate matters.
